DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claim 17 claims and insoluble alkali metal carbonate, when all alkali metal carbonates or soluble.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 16 and 23-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipate by Bruns et al. (5,984,678). Bruns et al discloses a method of removing plaque from and polishing teeth by blasting the teeth with and erasing agent. The process includes propelling the erasing agent of round 10-200 micron spherical particles at the tooth for a period of time so the larger particles break up and smaller ones cover the surface of the tooth. The large spherical particles are made of agglomerate smaller ones loosely bound, which gives the larger particle an irregular surface. In order to break the particles sufficiently, it is inherent that they be propelled at an incidence of 0 to 60 degrees, that and the relative position of the blasting apparatus and the patients tooth necessitates this angle. The particles are propelled with a stream of air, so the erasing agent is non-aqueous. It is disclosed that calcium carbonate, which is insoluble, make up the particles of the erasing agent (Column 3, lines 25-35; Column 4, lines 62-64, and Claim 1).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bruns et al. in view of Beerstecher et al. (6,485,304). Bruns et al. discloses the claimed invention with the exception of the particles comprising an alkali metal carbonate. Beerstecher et al. discloses the use of sodiumbicarbonate as a blasting dental powder. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the particles of Bruns et al. by making them sodiumbicarbonate, as taught by Beerstecher, since sodiumbicarbonate is a suitable abrasive known in the art of dental abrasives.
